After receiving a Bachelor of Arts in History at Transylvania University in Lexington, Kentucky, I served within AmeriCorps for two years, where I served within a multitude of diverse citizen action groups. In 2007, I received a Master's of Public Policy from the Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs, where I aided efforts to establish a greater connection with the immediate neighborhood and the Institute. I also served within the Citizens League Transportation Action Group, which advises the League's grander efforts on transportation policy, and as a board member with VSA Minnesota (formerly Very Special Arts of Minnesota) which advocates for access to arts for people with disabilities.
