
We need your input for the

Midtown Greenway Land Use and Development Plan

The City of Minneapolis is working with your community and a consultant team led by Short Elliott Hendrickson, Inc. to prepare a plan to guide future land uses and development in the Midtown Greenway corridor. You have been invited to participate in an informative open house where you can learn about the planning process and provide input to the project team. These are opportunities for you to contribute to this process:

Community Meeting #1
Monday July 18, 2005 6:30-8:30pm
Intermedia Arts auditorium
2822 Lyndale Avenue South

A public open house where you may come and go as you please. Listen to a brief presentation about the land use planning process, see some past work in the corridor and tell us what is important to you!

Community Meetings #2 & 3
Late August, 2005

Two public workshops will be held in the Greenway area with opportunities to determine redevelopment guidelines and respond to various development concepts.

Community Meetings #4 & 5
October, 2005

Two public workshops or "charrettes" will allow members of the community to contribute to design concepts for specific sites along the Greenway.

Community Meeting #6
November, 2005

A public meeting will be held where the preferred land use and development plan will be presented for review and comment.
