Public invited to attend meetings on heritage preservation in Seward, Longfellow, Cooper, Howe and Hiawatha Neighborhoods

WHAT: The City of Minneapolis announces upcoming community meetings about heritage preservation in South Minneapolis. A historic resource survey is underway in Seward, Longfellow, Cooper, Howe, and Hiawatha neighborhoods to assess the potential for historic properties. The City was first surveyed for historic resources in the 1970s and many of today's designated landmarks and historic districts are a result of this original survey. The upcoming meeting will be an opportunity to learn about the survey project and preservation activities in the survey area.

Since 2001, CPED has conducted a re-survey of historic resources in Minneapolis that has been funded by grants from the Minnesota Historical Society and matched by City dollars. The City has undertaken the re-survey because the aging of properties, changing attitudes about which types of historic resources need to be identified, for example increasing importance of historic landscapes and cultural and ethnic group resources. This year's survey will help achieve the City's goal of documenting historic resources throughout the entire city over a ten-year period. The report for last year's survey area of East Lowry Hill, Loring Park, and Elliot Park will be released this spring.

WHEN: Tuesday, February 3, 2009, 6pm to 7:30pm

WHERE: Matthews Park Recreation Center - 2318 29th Ave. S
