

City of Minneapolis

Public Art Drinking Fountains

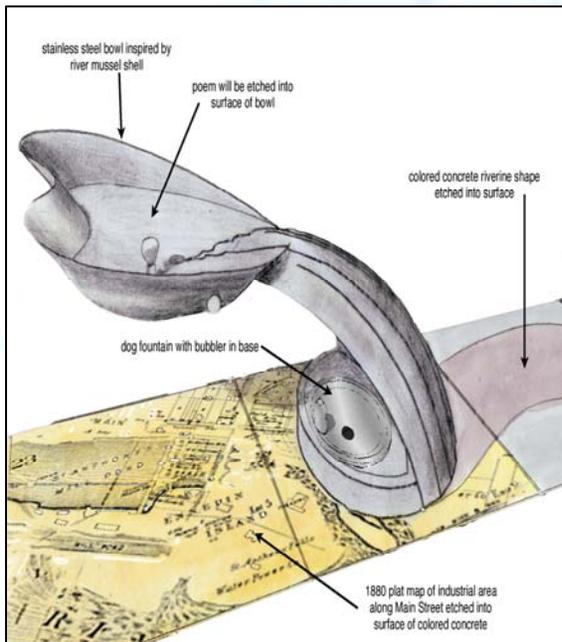

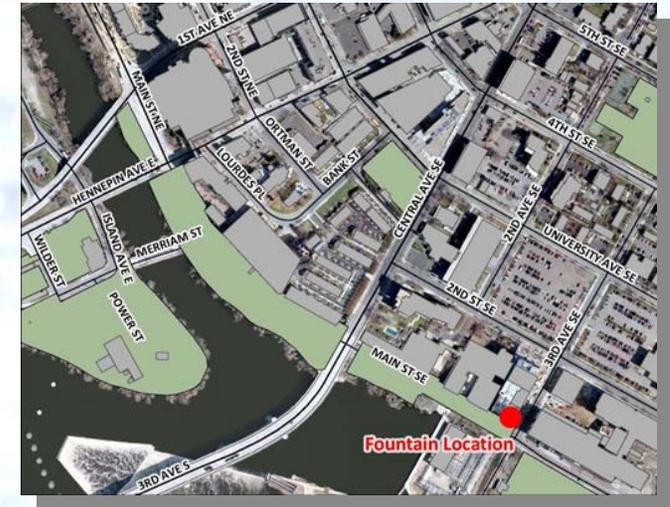

Celebrating the role of water in Minneapolis history and vitality

Main Street

St. Anthony Falls is where the City of Lakes began, and we are pleased to welcome this beautiful addition to the Mississippi riverfront.

David R. Frank, Schafer Richardson

The fountain bowl is an exaggerated shape of a native Mississippi River mussel shell. The design also implies a tilted bowl spilling into the river, reminding us the water that leaves the drain flows back to the Mississippi. Seitu Jones

Artist: Seitu Jones

Partner: Schafer Richardson

Location: Phoenix on the River

City of Minneapolis Art in Public Places and Department of Public Works