On July 24, 2000, the NRP Policy Board approved a Phase II Program Operation Plan. Under this plan, the Board set out the key components of each neighborhood's Phase II plan development efforts – including the development of an NRP Phase I plan review.

The Phase I plan review is designed to summarize the outcomes of the Phase I, look at changes that have occurred in the neighborhood since the outset of Phase I planning, and provide stakeholders a common understanding about the neighborhood's NRP efforts to date and how those efforts inform future planning.

In preparation for the start of the Holland NRP Phase II plan development process, the Holland Neighborhood Improvement Association (HNIA) has conducted and written a review (attached) of the NRP Phase I plan.
