Executive Summary

Background

Through NRP, over the past ten years Cleveland Neighborhood Association (CNA) has created and supported programs to benefit Cleveland neighborhood's residents. These programs covered a broad range of needs: improving homes, providing youth opportunities, and addressing crime, to name a few. Cleveland Neighborhood Association and neighborhood residents expect to continue to strengthen and improve the community during Phase II of the NRP.

In reviewing information from neighborhood surveys, focus groups, door knocking and other outreach methods, the NRP Steering Committee charged to develop the Phase II Action Plan concluded that specific areas of interest to neighborhood residents are housing, commercial development, crime and safety, neighborhood identity, community engagement, environment, transportation, and the association's future after NRP. Additionally, staff time and support are necessary for effective implementation and administration of the goals, objectives and strategies outlined in this plan.

Housing

Under housing, objectives and strategies were designed to reach the goal to "improve neighborhood stability by maintaining and improving housing inventory and encouraging homeownership through financial support and educational opportunities." Strategies center on maintaining and improving home conditions, increasing homeownership, replacing substandard properties with new buildings, educating homeowners and potential homeowners, and investing in home security.

Commercial development

In the commercial development section, with the goal being to increase commercial investment in Cleveland, objectives and strategies were developed to support and encourage commercial investment in and around Cleveland. More specifically, some initiatives CNA plans to implement include providing incentives for home-based businesses to move into available business space, recruiting targeted businesses for locating in or near Cleveland, and staying involved with development projects affecting the Cleveland community.

Crime and safety

Crime and safety continue to be a priority for Cleveland residents, and CNA is committed to the goal of increasing feelings of safety and decreasing crime in Cleveland. To achieve this goal, CNA plans to create and support safety programs, to strengthen the neighborhood's relationship with the Minneapolis Police Department, to address speeding and other traffic issues, and to work with landlords on improving quality and maintaining safety of rental properties.

Neighborhood identity

An important aspect of neighborhood life is neighborhood identity, which includes instilling an awareness of and appreciation for Cleveland neighborhood among its residents and the wider community. To improve neighborhood identity, CNA plans to create and distribute informational and promotional materials about Cleveland as well as North Minneapolis, to develop signage for the neighborhood, and to support projects designed to beautify the neighborhood.

Community engagement

With regards to community engagement, CNA would like to increase engagement opportunities and resident interaction in Cleveland. Some steps CNA plans to take to do this include recruiting volunteers, producing a regular newsletter, hosting neighborhood gatherings, providing meaningful opportunities for youth, and promoting block clubs.

Environment

To address environmental concerns, CNA wants to maintain and sustain Cleveland's natural environment and urban landscape. More specifically, CNA would like to create an environment for residents to enjoy and to invest in green living and neighborhood green spaces. CNA also plans to promote Cleveland Park use, by hosting regular events there and by improving the visibility of the park from Penn and Lowry Avenues.

Transportation

In the transportation section, the goal is to provide adequate and safe transportation options for those who live, work or play in Cleveland neighborhood. CNA plans to work with the city and other entities to increase availability of bus, bike and light rail options in or near Cleveland neighborhood.

Communication

Regular, effective communication is essential for meeting many of the objectives and strategies outlined in the NRP Phase II plan. To ensure that residents and businesses are aware of neighborhood events and programs, CNA plans to develop appropriate technological systems to connect with neighborhood residents, landlords and businesses.

Future of Cleveland Neighborhood Association

In order to continue its work, CNA must consider how it will exist in the future beyond NRP. Steps necessary for developing a viable future include promoting and publicizing CNA's vision and mission statements and diversifying the funds that support the association's programs and initiatives.

Implementation and administration

Finally, to ensure the association's effectiveness as an organization, it is necessary to provide funds for adequate implementation and administration of the NRP Phase II plan. CNA must continue to employ at least one person to assist in the implementation of the plan. CNA also intends to utilize neighborhood volunteers to achieve the neighborhood association's goals.

Background

Neighborhood description and history

“Small neighborhood, big heart.” Cleveland neighborhood’s motto describes it well. Despite being one of the smallest neighborhoods in Minneapolis, Cleveland is home to residents who care about the neighborhood’s future; these neighbors work toward creating a safe and healthy environment for all who live, work and attend school in Cleveland. Located in North Minneapolis and one of the seven neighborhoods that comprise the Camden community, Cleveland is bounded by Lowry Avenue on the south, Penn Avenue North on the east, Dowling Avenue on the north and Xerxes Avenue North on the west.

While it is a small neighborhood, according to United States Census data, from 1980 to 2000 Cleveland neighborhood experienced growth faster than the city of Minneapolis as a whole, growing by 6.8 percent to 3,440 residents in 2000. Along with that population growth, Cleveland neighborhood has seen an increase in its population of children ages 5 to 17, and the number of older adults (65 and older) living in Cleveland has decreased. One of the most striking changes in the Cleveland population from 1980 to 2000 has been the shift in racial demographics. In 1980, 95 percent of the population was white, compared to 51 percent in 2000. By contrast, in 1980 two percent of the population was black and 0.5 percent was Asian, compared to 2000, when 30 percent of the population was black and 10 percent was Asian. Along with these demographics, it is important to note the racial demographics by householder. According to the 2000 Census, 68 percent of householders are white, 23 percent are black, 5 percent are Asian, 1 percent are American Indian and the remainder report being two or more races. When considering the Cleveland neighborhood NRP survey results, the householder demographics are more relevant with generally one survey completed for each household.

Looking at the wealth of the neighborhood population, Cleveland’s median household income for 1999 was higher than for the city of Minneapolis at $42,161 (compared to $37,974 for the city). Despite having a higher than average median household income, Cleveland has not experienced as much of an increase in median housing value when compared with Minneapolis as a whole. In 2000, the median housing value in Cleveland was $82,800, compared to $113,500 for the city of Minneapolis. Additionally, it is important to recognize the range of wealth in the neighborhood, with the eastern border on Penn Avenue consisting of largely rental properties and small-scale businesses and the western border on Xerxes Avenue consisting of many upscale residential homes facing Victory Memorial Parkway.

Cleveland and surrounding neighborhoods such as Jordan, Folwell and Hawthorne are experiencing numerous changes with recent and upcoming construction along the Lowry Avenue Corridor. The southeast corner of Penn Avenue North and Lowry Avenue North is currently under development, after sitting vacant for over ten years. With these investments in the area, Cleveland Neighborhood Association (CNA) is optimistic about the neighborhood’s future and the opportunities that will be available for commercial growth. As a recipient of the Great City Design Team award, in spring 2007 CNA and residents worked with architects and developers to create a vision of what could be developed on the northwest corner of Penn Avenue North and Lowry Avenue North. CNA hopes this vision will help guide future development at that corner.

Cleveland Neighborhood Association vision and mission

As CNA plans for its future, including the carrying out of strategies outlined in this plan, it is important to revisit the association's vision and mission to ensure that actions and priorities of the neighborhood reflect these broader values. Below are the organization's vision and mission, with additional explanation about the vision statement.

Vision statement

The Cleveland Neighborhood values its diverse population. It has services and programs that support the community. It has a variety of successful businesses serving the needs of and supported by the neighborhood. Cleveland Neighborhood manifests genuine neighborliness, exhibits urban appeal and is a place where residents and visitors feel welcome and safe.

Explanation of vision statement

- The diverse population of Cleveland consists of people of all ages, genders, races, ethnic backgrounds, economic levels, and sexual orientation and includes both homeowners and renters.
- The services and programs include but are not limited to churches, schools, libraries, mass transit, recreational opportunities, housing programs, and block clubs
- The neighborliness embodies inclusiveness and mutual respect, shared values and norms, friendly interaction and helpfulness, a sharing of talents and skills, a sense of neighborhood stewardship, and a sense of "place".
- The characteristics that contribute to urban appeal are a clean environment with adequate green space, proximity to downtown, easy access to major freeways and highways, a well maintained physical infrastructure, proximity to a variety of resources, goods and services, and an attractive and well maintained housing stock.
- The perception of safety is realized when residents can and feel they can walk safely in all parts of the neighborhood at all times and know that neighbors know and watch out for each other.

Mission statement

The mission of the Cleveland Neighborhood Association is to protect and promote the interests of the residents and business owners by representing the neighborhood in all levels of government planning, promoting resident involvement and community building, researching and evaluating the assets and needs of the community, developing and implementing plans and programs that will maintain the assets and address the needs, communicating to, educating and involving the residents and collaborating with other neighborhoods and agencies in realizing the vision of the neighborhood .

NRP planning stages

NRP Phase I review

During Phase I of the Neighborhood Revitalization Program, CNA accomplished work outlined in its Phase I action plan, which was finalized in December 1995. NRP funds enabled the Cleveland neighborhood to improve its community by providing funds and technical expertise to residents, who were then able to make decisions appropriate for Cleveland. In addition to implementing a wide range of activities, from partnering with others to carry out the North Housing and Home Improvement Fair to providing landscaping grants for residents, CNA was able to move into a brand new office located on the south side of Lucy Craft Laney Community School. This move has allowed for partnerships to develop between CNA, the Minneapolis Public Schools and other school related initiatives. One of the most positive developments growing out of Phase I of the project was the increase in networking among residents and community organizations. Cleveland Neighborhood Association and its residents developed positive relationships with Minneapolis city officials, other neighborhood associations, organizations investing in and improving North Minneapolis and other entities working to strengthen communities. These networks and partnerships provide a strong foundation for continuing to make Cleveland neighborhood and North Minneapolis great places to live, work and play.

NRP Phase II planning and information gathering process

In October 2005 CNA began its Phase II planning process. At its 2005 annual meeting, neighborhood residents brainstormed ideas about how to spend funds on housing and non-related housing issues in order to maintain and improve the neighborhood environment.

In 2006, CNA established its NRP Steering Committee, which is comprised of two women and three men. Additionally, through a neighborhood resident, CNA connected with the University of Minnesota's service learning program, which involved four university students with the NRP planning process during the spring of 2007. These four students played a critical role in helping the steering committee gather information for the action plan.

The first main task of the NRP Steering Committee was to create a neighborhood survey, which was completed and mailed to residents in December 2006. Over 1,300 households and businesses received the survey, and 141 individuals completed it. Survey respondents were generally representative of the neighborhood geographically. However, over 80 percent of survey respondents were white, even though in 2000 only 51 percent of individuals living in the neighborhood were white.

To supplement survey results, the University of Minnesota students' door knocked on homes located on neighborhood streets that had fewer respondents compared to the rest of Cleveland (Lowry, Penn, Queen and Russell). Through the door knocking students connected with residents that may not have otherwise participated in the NRP planning process, including several individuals from underrepresented groups. Additionally, the door knocking approach gave residents the opportunity to share more detailed information about their concerns and hopes for the neighborhood.

In March 2007, the steering committee hosted three focus groups to help identify solutions to the concerns identified in the survey. Shortly after the focus groups, the committee hosted a neighborhood “NRP Open House” at which residents could prioritize the ideas from the focus groups that were most important to them.

Following the NRP Open House, the University of Minnesota students brainstormed another idea for reaching underrepresented groups, creating a postcard requesting people to rank ideas generated from the focus group. These postcards were left at neighborhood businesses and handed out by CNA board members and staff to neighborhood residents, targeting those from underrepresented groups. Postcards were also distributed on May 25 at the Lucy Craft Laney Community School End of the Year celebration, where CNA hosted an educational booth.

During the early summer, NRP Steering Committee members interviewed business owners, managers and landlords to get their feedback about what they would change at their businesses if funds were available. Additionally, owners and managers also expressed concerns they had about the neighborhood, such as criminal activity.

On June 14, at the Cleveland Neighborhood Summer Kickoff Celebration, a steering committee member visited with several attendees about their neighborhood concerns, asking questions about what they would do if they had a low-interest loan and what actions they would like to see taken to make the neighborhood safer.

All these outreach efforts contributed significantly to the development of the Phase II action plan.

Goals, objectives and strategies for NRP Phase II

In reviewing the results from the surveys, focus groups, door knocking and other outreach methods, the NRP Steering Committee concluded that the specific areas of interest to neighborhood residents fall under these categories: housing; commercial development; crime and safety; neighborhood identity; community engagement; the environment; and the association’s future after NRP. Additionally, staff time and support are necessary for effective implementation and administration of the goals, objectives and strategies outlined in this plan.

Each of the strategies fit within the goals developed by the city of Minneapolis, as listed below.

1. Build communities where all people feel safe and trust the City’s public safety professionals and systems.
2. Maintain the physical infrastructure to ensure a healthy, vital and safe City.
3. Deliver consistently high quality City services at a good value to our taxpayers.
4. Create an environment that maximizes economic development opportunities within Minneapolis by focusing on the City’s physical and human assets.
5. Foster the development and preservation of a mix of quality housing types that is available, affordable, meets current needs, and promotes future growth.
6. Preserve and enhance our natural and historic environment and promote a clean, sustainable Minneapolis.
7. Promote public, community and private partnerships to address disparities and to support strong, healthy families and communities.
8. Strengthen City government management and enhance community engagement.

In the action plan, following each strategy is the city goal (or goals) that relate to that strategy.

Housing

Goal A: Improve neighborhood stability by maintaining and improving housing inventory and encouraging homeownership through financial support and educational opportunities

Rationale: Community homeowners, responsible and trustworthy landlords and an active community contribute to neighborhood stability by maintaining their properties and ensuring that neighboring properties do not deteriorate. Cleveland Neighborhood Association must create and support initiatives designed to help maintain and improve neighborhood housing stock. Additionally, one of the main reasons people move to Cleveland is because of the affordability of the homes. CNA would like to ensure opportunities for home purchase to encourage more homeownership in the area. CNA also recognizes that many of its residents are renters, and as a result, the association would like to reach out to renters and make it possible for them to own a home in Cleveland.

Objective 1: Maintain and improve conditions of existing homes in Cleveland

Strategy A: Create neighborhood standards for housing conditions.

How: CNA, working alongside residents and landlords, will review best practices to determine standards that will serve as guidelines for homeowners and landlords. These guidelines will indicate what CNA would like to see concerning the minimal maintenance necessary to contribute to neighborhood stability.

Crime and safety

(Note: Block clubs, seen as a component of crime and safety initiatives, are addressed in the community engagement section of the NRP Plan.)

Goal C: Increase feelings of safety and decrease crime in Cleveland

Rationale: Overwhelmingly, neighborhood residents are concerned about crime and safety in Cleveland. To keep current residents in the neighborhood and to attract new homeowners, renters and businesses, Cleveland must address two issues: decreasing actual crime in the neighborhood and increasing the feeling of safety in the neighborhood and more generally in North Minneapolis. Every person in Cleveland should expect to live, work or attend school in a safe and healthy environment. Based on survey results, focus group results and general conversations with neighborhood residents, it is clear that residents would like a stronger and more positive relationship developed with the Minneapolis Police Department.

Environment

Goal F: Maintain and sustain Cleveland's natural environment and urban landscape

Rationale: Cleveland neighborhood has two park areas immediately accessible to residents. Victory Memorial Parkway, bordering the western edge of Cleveland, is a wonderful area for walking, biking and playing outdoor games, and many neighborhood residents take advantage of this community asset. Cleveland's other green space, Cleveland Park, is currently underutilized, despite the fact that it also includes many assets: a recently renovated wading pool; a baseball diamond; basketball courts; barbecue grills and two playgrounds. According to respondents of the survey, many residents do not use this park because it is less accessible than Victory Memorial Parkway; because they do not feel safe in the park; and because they do not know what is available at Cleveland Park. These two park systems and other green spaces in the Cleveland neighborhood urban landscape need to be maintained and strengthened to ensure a clean and safe natural environment for the community.

Objective 1: Create an environment for residents to enjoy and invest in green living and neighborhood green spaces

Future of Cleveland Neighborhood Association

Goal I: Ensure the future of Cleveland Neighborhood Association

Rationale: Cleveland neighborhood needs to focus on its long-term future, establishing ways to sustain itself beyond the NRP. Examining its community vision and carrying out that vision will help the neighborhood association continue its support of the community. Cleveland is currently “on the edge” with regards to crime, safety and neighborhood involvement. With more resident involvement and energy, the neighborhood can continue to be a safe and healthy environment for individuals living and working here. With neglect and lack of attention to concerns of crime and community development, the neighborhood may experience more crime and lower economic stability. According to the survey, many respondents feel that CNA should be less focused on being a conduit for money; instead, residents feel CNA should strengthen communication with and among residents, support block clubs, have a more active “on the streets” role and be a liaison with the city. To meet this role and maintain a long-term positive presence in the community, CNA will need additional funds beyond NRP.

Implementation and administration

Goal J: Ensure CNA's effectiveness as an organization

Rationale: Based on the NRP Phase I evaluation, CNA must continue to employ at least one part-time coordinator and one part-time community organizer to successfully carry out the goals of the association. As noted in the Phase I evaluation, “during times when CNA did not have staff, it readily became apparent that without staff the neighborhood could not move ahead with implementing their Action Plan and reaching the goals it had set for itself. Time required to implement these activities was beyond the capacity of a strictly volunteer organization.”

Objective 1: Develop a neighborhood action plan

Strategy A: Create an NRP Steering Committee to conduct outreach and determine what residents and businesses would like to see in Cleveland neighborhood

How: Solicit volunteers to create a neighborhood survey, request feedback from people and businesses and assist in the development of the written action plan.
